

New Webpage

The Board has developed a new webpage which has been designed to simplify the location and presentation of information. The new site is in two separate and distinct parts, Public Access and Surveyor Access. The Public Access component of the site contains all the public information about surveying and the role of the Board. A separate Surveyor Access has been created to provide information about the Competency Frameworks, Career Episode Reports, Registration and Board Publications specific to surveying and is for all those working within the surveying industry.

The site will default to public access and surveyors should refer to the bottom right corner and utilise the Surveyor Access button to move direct to the Surveyor content. The Public/Surveyor access button is in the bottom right corner of every page to provide free movement between the two components of the site.

Please visit the new site and feel free to make any recommendations that would further enhance the Board's website. One final addition still to be added to the site are a number of examples of CERs across all levels of registration and this will be completed shortly.

New Web and Email Address

With the development of the new website the Board took the opportunity to simplify and shorten the web address to www.sbg.com.au. The Board's email address has now changed to admin@sbq.com.au. Access via the old web address or old email address will automatically be redirected. The Board anticipates that over time the new web and email address will become readily known and accepted.

New Logo

The Board has taken the opportunity to align the website development with a new logo. Below is the new logo and its reverse image.

Board Communique

A new Board communique format has been developed. The Board communique will continue to be emailed however the email will only disclose the heading and an introductory paragraph with a link to the Board webpage for access to the full publication.
